Summaries of studies of children who play chess have shown an increase in the development of important life skills particularly cognitive abilities, visualization, emotional intelligence, critical and abstract thinking, problem solving abilities, increases in fluency, reasoning, memory, originality, creativity, etiquette and a general increase in IQ. Chess also helps to remind children that choices we make can help us or not. In short, chess is very good for the development of children's intellect and character.

Chess instruction provided by Chess King Corp covers basic chess rules, basic tactics, advanced tactical training and is age, grade and skill level appropriate. Children of all grades are invited to participate, to have fun and reap the rewards and benefits of the Chess King Corp program.
